

APPENDIX A

Buckinghamshire Council Annual Report 2020/21

Foreword

On 1 April 2020, we became a new organisation, establishing the new Buckinghamshire Council, providing all council services to all of our Buckinghamshire residents as one team.

This change came at an incredibly testing time but I am so proud of how our teams have risen to the challenge. We have been working exceptionally hard to support our residents through the coronavirus crisis as well as delivering our usual services. This annual report reflects the achievements of Buckinghamshire Council against our Corporate Plan priorities in its very first year, outside of our coronavirus response. (A separate report will consider the work that the Council has done with its partners to support Buckinghamshire during the pandemic). As a Council, all Members have played a key role in the delivery of our achievements for our residents, communities, and businesses over the last year. Whilst we can look back and be proud of what we have achieved, the challenges of the pandemic will certainly remain with us over the coming months and beyond. We will have to make some difficult decisions in the short-term to balance our budget to make sure we continue to protect and support our residents who are vulnerable and in need.

However, as a newly formed Council, we have a unique opportunity to improve the services we provide and accelerate the county's success and prosperity in the future. The next twelve months offer much hope for the future and we will spend it building on the positive changes we have already made this year as well as focussing on recovery, growth and increasing our resilience and agility.

Our vision for Buckinghamshire has not changed and we remain dedicated to making Buckinghamshire the best place to live, raise a family, work and do business.

I'm pleased to be able to reflect in this report how we have made a flying start to our journey as a new Council and how in the next twelve months, we will build on these excellent foundations.

Protecting the vulnerable

While most people in Buckinghamshire live independent and healthy lives, some need extra support and protection. We know that the number of children and adults who need this extra help is increasing. There are also rising numbers of people with mental health difficulties, special educational needs, disabilities and complex needs.

We want to give everyone the best chances in life, so that – together with their families and carers - they are resilient and can identify their own solutions. We will continue to work with our partners and communities to innovate and improve our offer, helping people recover from illness sooner, promoting fostering, reducing social isolation and loneliness, and supporting our most vulnerable residents.

Our goal is to reduce inequalities and give everyone the support and skills they need to live independent, happy and fulfilling lives.

We know we have to deliver more homes and associated infrastructure for our growing population. Increasing prosperity

Buckinghamshire is a prosperous county and a successful place to do business, contributing £14.8 billion to the UK economy and ranked as the fourth most productive area in England.

The county has low unemployment, higher than average household incomes, and boasts world-leading sectors. From Pinewood Studios in the south to Silverstone in the north, Buckinghamshire is a great success story. We are also well placed to take advantage of emerging opportunities because of our proximity to London and Heathrow, and our location in the middle of the Oxford to Cambridge Arc (a leading economic area with global strengths in science, technology and high-value manufacturing).

However, the national trend shows that high levels of productivity and growth are beginning to slow, and action is needed now to ensure our economy remains fit for the future.

The next chapter

The COVID-19 pandemic is a pivotal event for our generation; a time when the nation has relied on public services like never before. Moving forward, we have an opportunity to reshape our services around people and communities as we continue to evolve as an organisation. The response to the pandemic has shown us the power of collaboration; what public services, businesses and local people can achieve together and as the peak of the crisis passes, it is now time to think about what comes next and what could look different.

We are already reflecting on the lessons learned from the pandemic, and are seeking to maintain the positive experiences, as well as learn from the challenges, as part of our recovery planning. Our recovery and growth proposition to central government is pivotal to this and we look forward to continuing our discussions with the government about this in the coming months.

This year will see Buckinghamshire Council meet a key post-unitary milestone as we go through elections that were previously delayed. This will bring changes to our democratic organisation as we elect the 147 members who will help us to deliver the strategic ambitions of the authority.

As we continue to work towards realisation of the Bucks vision we will maximise the benefits of uniterisation and we will maintain collaboration with our partners to make sure Buckinghamshire grows as a thriving, resilient and successful county. By listening to local voices, offering local choices and delivering local action, Buckinghamshire Council will continue to deliver on its ambitions and priorities to make Buckinghamshire the best place to live, raise a family, work and do business.
